Methodist Sports Medicine

FACT SHEET

OVERVIEW:
Methodist Sports Medicine, an Indiana University (IU) Health partner, is Central Indiana’s premier provider of comprehensive orthopedic services and has built its reputation on excellence in orthopedics and sports medicine for more than 25 years. Official team physicians for many high school, college and professional teams, including the NFL’s Indianapolis Colts, 100 percent of the group’s orthopedic surgeons are fellowship-trained, board-certified and leaders in new technologies, procedures and research. Methodist Sports Medicine was ranked by Becker’s Orthopedic & Spine Review as one of the “Top 50 Orthopedic Practices To Know” in 2011 and one of “56 Sports Medicine Practices to Know” in 2012.

Methodist Sports Medicine was established in 1982, inspired by Thomas A. Brady, MD, and his Saturday morning walk-in clinic in the basement of Methodist Hospital during the 1960s to assist athletes on the morning after a game. Today, Methodist Sports Medicine is recognized as a pioneer in sports medicine and known for its commitment to personalized patient care. Founding physicians John R. McCarroll, MD, and Arthur C. Rettig, MD, are still with the practice.

MISSION:
An expert team of sports medicine and orthopedic specialists dedicated to assuring that you get the care and attention you need to get back to the game of life.

INDIANAPOLIS COLTS TEAM PHYSICIANS:
Methodist Sports Medicine physicians have been the team physicians for the Indianapolis Colts since 1984 and were a part of the team’s 2007 Super Bowl Championship. Arthur C. Rettig, MD, is the Indianapolis Colts’ head team physician and leads a medical team that includes physicians Gary Misamore, MD, Tom Klootwyk, MD, David Porter, MD, and Thurmon V. Alvey, III, DO. Rettig was named Emageon MVP NFL Physician of the Year in 2001, and the Jerry “Hawk” Rhea Outstanding NFL Team Physician of the Year in 2003. Dr. Rettig and John McCarroll, MD were both inducted into the Indiana Football Coaches Association Hall of Fame.

AREAS OF EXPERTISE:
Sports Medicine; Sports Performance; Spine; Shoulder; Rehabilitation; Pediatric Sports Medicine; Knee; Joint Replacement & Arthritis; Hip; Hand, Wrist & Elbow; Foot & Ankle; Concussion Management

One hundred percent of Methodist Sports Medicine’s orthopedic surgeons are fellowship-trained, which means they have all received one additional year of in-depth specialty training in a specific area under the guidance of a top orthopedic specialist. Patients can trust that our fellowship-trained surgeons are among the most knowledgeable, experienced and skilled in their particular area.
Methodist Sports Medicine currently has 12 active orthopedic surgeons, one chiropractic doctor, two neurological surgeons and one primary care physician, along with a team of physical therapists and athletic trainers. The physicians are:
